The importance of using the correct cleaning

Screen cleaner

There are many different screen cleaning products on the market, and customers receive varying advice on the matter from both flatscreen manufacturers and distributors. Flatscreen surfaces differ in quality although most of them are made of plastic. Plastic surfaces are very sensitive and are easily damaged or scratched by daily use and cleaning.

Tests show that the use of the wrong cloth, such as normal housekeeping cloths, can leave serious scratches on the surface even after cleaning only a few times. AM uses only microfibre produced with round fibres and soft ends that ensure that the material itself does not cause microscopic scratches.

Correct fluid and cloth are important

A comparison test where 2 sets of 8 different brands of used flatscreens were intensively subjected to moisture and frequent cleaning with, respectively, 100% IPA (alcohol that is used in many cleaning products) cleaning fluid and AM's water-based cleaning solution, showed clear results.

After only 2 days the screens exposed to IPA showed clear physical signs of being affected. The IPA permeated through microscopic scratches and pores in the surface and caused the underlying material to bubble up. It is clear that even small "invisible" scratches are the culprit in the permeation of the alcohol.

Even after 3 months of exposure and cleaning with AM's water-based formula, none of the screen surfaces showed any form of visible effect, other than a clean screen!

AM screen cleaner formula

AM's specially developed water-based screen cleaner formula contains no IPA or other alcohol.
Our formula is effective, but also gentle. AM's screen cleaner fluid can be used on all types of screens or surfaces.

Bacteria on your keyboard

When did you last look at your keyboard? – Really looked! During the course of the day, we touch thousands of different things that others have touched. Subsequently, people sit down at their keyboards and merrily type away. You sneeze, spill a little coffee or soda, perhaps a few crumbs also fall down into your keyboard. After a while, a good mixture is formed that creates a breeding ground for bacteria – quite a lot of bacteria.

A study performed by an American research centre has shown that there are approx. 510 bacteria per cm^2 on a keyboard in a normal office environment. There are only 8 bacteria per cm2 on a toilet seat. Where are you going to eat your next meal?

When a Canadian hospital determined that a malicious bacteria infection had spread via their shared keyboards, they had no choice but to throw the infected keyboards out in order to stop it from spreading.

IPA alcohol is a very effective bacteria-killer, while it also dissolves grease and dirt. IPA dissolves filth, not the printing or anything else. AM keyboard cleaner is based upon IPA and a number of other active washing substances that make for quick and efficient cleaning of the keyboard.

...your keyboard is dirty, very dirty !

CD and DVD Lens cleaning

Optical Discs - How they work

CD, DVD, CD-ROM, VCD -- they are all optical discs.
An optical disc is basically built up in 3 layers. The new multilayered types consist of more although the principle is the same. The first layer is plastic and is coated with a layer of reflective metal. Around this there is a layer of plastic that protects against wear and scratches.

Data is stored in form of ones and zeroes. It is binary numbers that are represented on a CD by millions of holes, flats and elevations on the disc's reflective surface. These are incredibly small changes in the surface of the disc, placed in one, integrated track. The track on a CD is less than 0.5 microns or a millionth of a metre, the track is about 5 km long from start to finish. The track on a double-sided DVD is 48 km.

Reading of the disc is done with a laser beam. The disc reflects the beam to an optical sensor, a flat is interpreted as the digit one, an elevation or a darkening as the number zero. The track on a disc starts at its centre and winds its way out to the outer edge as a spiral. Due to the difference in speed at the far outside and inside of the disc, the disc player must lower the speed of the disc the further out on the disc it has to read in order to obtain a uniform reading speed.

With the regular use of a lens cleaner, one ensures the clear and error-free reading of music, film or data. AM offers a broad assortment of laser lens cleaners for all types of disc players.

Cleaning Cards

Millions of card transactions take place every day

Millions of cards are being handled by dirty or greasy fingers. The grease and dirt wears off the cards and settles inside the card reading machines. The settlements grow thicker and thicker and will inevitably prevent the reading mechanism and the mechanic wheels from working properly.

This is why it is essential to clean the readers on a regular basis. AM Denmark provides a wide range of cleaning card solutions to fit your purpose.

CD and DVD cleaning

Music that skips, images that freeze, sections that disappear, games that block….it is most certainly your disc needs to be cleaned.

Optical discs - why they don't work

The laser beam is reflected in plastic surfaces. A scratch most often takes the form of a V-shaped groove on the surface of the plastic. When the laser runs over the scratch, an erroneous reading takes place. Most of the disc players today can compensate for some erroneous reading; however the more numerous and the worse the scratches, the poorer the reading.

With sufficiently many or deep scratches, it is no longer possible to play the disc. Scratches in the direction of play are the worst, since they confuse the player to the maximum extent. Scratches on the image side ruin the reflective effect and thus the reading. Dirt can have the same effect as scratches.

As a rule, it is enough to clean a disc, however if the disc is scratched it can in most cases be repaired. AM offers a number of products for both the cleaning and the repair of discs.

AM's DVD pocket history

We were really irritated with all the standard pockets that are found on the market, they were either too narrow, the holes were not appropriate or it was impossible to get the cover down in the pocket without clipping off the back.

That was simply not good enough. Hence we have designed this unique DVD pocket where there is room for both 2 discs and the entire cover, with back, so there is no need to ruin the cover. In addition, it is now possible to insert the pocket into all types of loose-leaf binder systems.
